ENFORCING THE DRESS CODE:

Dress Code Clothing must comply with these style guidelines in this document. It is best to shop the uniform sections of retail stores for best compliance. For additional information on enforcement, please see the current Parent-Student Handbook.

Primary Responsibility

Because parents purchase clothing items and students get dressed at home, the primary responsibility of the student being "in code" rests with the parents. We prefer that appropriate clothing and appearance decisions be handled at home so that students will come to school in code.

Any employee may call to a student's attention if he/she is out of code. In most cases, communication to parents will come through the classroom teacher or administration.

Continued disregard for the dress code guidelines (including hair) will be treated as disobedience and may bring more severe consequences.

While we have done our best to provide proper guidelines, no list can cover every possibility. Whenever there is a question about clothing or shoes, please bring it to school with the price tag still on and keep your receipts so that it can be returned if it does not meet the dress code.

The administration will make the final decision concerning a student's appearance. We expect that parents will support whatever decision is made.

Thank you for supporting the dress code at Valley Christian Academy.

General adjustments for 1819 include: no more yellows, belt colors, skort sources no longer SB only.
